Plans of the Scranton North End Street Railway Company.

THE CARS WILL RUN TO WINTON

Idea Is to Furnish Means of Transpor tation for the People of Winton, the Lower Part of Olyphant and Throop Borough-Road Will Not Be Leased, Mr. Ammerman Says-Extensions South of the City.

The Electric Street Railway commy, of which Attorney Lomuel unmerman, Lieutenant Governor L. A. Watres, H. H. Arener, P. S. Page and Robert C. Adams are the directors, thich was mentioned in yesterday's misure as having been granted a marter by the state department under be corporate title of the Scranton orth End Street Railway company. llowing the privilege of building tracks and all other necessary ap-purtenances on certain streets in the orthern part of the city, is ready to begin operations as soon as the right of wav is granted by the city conneils.

A Tribune reported visited Mr. Am-nerman at his office yesterday. The harter which was granted to his company on Tuesday is only for the conmile in length beginning at the presat terminus of the Green Ridge Peompany and ending at the city line on te border at Threep Borough. But here was added to the application for the charter a request for a franchise ra short line beginning at North Main avenue and terminating at Dick on avenue. This line will not be built for the present, as it is to serve the purpose of connecting the Providence line of the Scranton Traction company with the proposed Abington Electric road. The combined length of the lines granted in Tuesday's charter, therefore, s not more than a mile and a half. As soon as the right of way is granted by conneils for the building of what is really the extension of the Green Ridge line, the task of constructing a line clear through to Jessup will at the

Immenso Stone Arch Suggested in Place of Linden Street Bridge. Editor of THE TUIBUNE:

The plans for placing a bridge over the BR. C. C. LAUBACH, dentiat, Gas and Water company building. Wyoming avenue. Latest improvements. Eight years in Scranton.

Fallon's hotel in Old Forge and a line run along the back road to Moosic, where it will converge with the extension and have progressed so far that it is supposed the people of our city cannot wait much longer, before some one shall be adopted and bridge thus made. But would it not be well to move slow enough or the subject and to adopt the best plan?

It has occurred to me, as well as to others, no doubt, that could the property owners holding rights immediately adjoining the river, combine their interests with the city and place an arch of stone over the river of sufficient capacity for the the Water street depot. All this work flow of water, and side or coping walls of proper grade height, and fill in to bring up the grade for roadway, and then have an asphalt or stone paving, making a per-nament roadway.

If practical to use stone for the full distance across the space to be spanned on account of railroad tracks it might be composite structure of stone and steel. Such a plan might be adopted if the city alone should build a bridge for public travel; but in the event of adoption of the travel; but in the event of adoption of the suggestion, owners of land and the city combining their interests, a long distance, even from the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western bridge up the stream, could be covered, so as to be used for buildings to be located thereon, it is believed to make a paying investment.

It is probable that steel bridges may, in many instances, be erected at less cost, but with the abundance of good stone at hand and arches built of only sufficient for the flow of water, and then filling up to proper grade, and besides saving the renewing of plank roadway so often there may be economy, if not in the first cost, which could be determined when proper estimates are made.
